CASE REPORT

AEROMONAS HYDROPHILA WOUND INFECTION FOLLOWING A TIGER BITE IN NEPAL

JM Easow and Rashmi Tuladhar

Department of Clinical Microbiology, Manipal Teaching Hospital, Phulbari, Pokhara, Nepal.

In The Southeast Asian Journal of Tropical Medicine and Public Health 2007; 38 (5): 869, paragraph 2, last four lines, which are:

Since we did not isolate Aeromonas from other probable sites, this supports our hypothesis the source of the bacteria was the tiger oral flora might sound better.

Should, as corrected, read:

As we did not isolate Aeromonas from other probable sites, this supports our hypothesis about the source being a part of the tiger's oral flora.
